UNHEATED HONEY

Leatherwood - Tasmania renowned honey blossoming from January to early March. A perfume full of childhood memories; gentle character with nut flavours

Lake Pedder's Nectar - From the east side of Lake Pedder where the flowers bloom from early November to early January. Rich aromatic bouquet, he has a little bitterness and a strong flavour, heart filled and strong after taste. Cooks well in a spice cake and marinades.

Prickly Box - East Coast harvest from Christmas to New Year. It has a butter-scotch aroma with a mild floral perfume. We love putting a spoon of this one into whipped cream on a fruit flan.

Blue Gum - Tasmanian South East spring blossom from November To Christmas. It has a soft eucalyptus aroma with a very fine crystal. Cooks well with pudding or just a spoonful at evening time.

Tea Tree - Christmas flower from the valley of Lake Pedder. Rich, coloured brown, high in natural anti-biotic goodness. Skin food or as a refreshing lemon drink, hot or cold.

Wine Glass of Honey - Lady Kunzea dances from Flinders Island to Wineglass Bay. She sources ambrosial flavours from the white sandy coastline, yielding mysterious nectar with lingering after tones of earthly ripeness. The Mariner's marinade.
